

CED 722 - Supporting Mixed-Gender Scouting as a Commissioner

Activity Cards

1. An adult leader approaches you with a concern about his troop, which is currently a boy troop. The Scouts and other adult leaders are discussing merging with their linked girl troop to form a single, mixed-gender troop. The leader is concerned that the boys won't get as much out of scouting if girls are involved.	2. You are at a recruiting event as a commissioner to assist the troop's leaders. A parent approaches you and expresses a concern about safety. They are concerned that having boys and girls together at a camporee might be unsafe.
3. A long-serving Assistant Scoutmaster is upset that his troop has become mixed-gender. Although all of the youth supported it, he believes it is not good for the Scouts. In particular, he believes that there will never be a boy Senior Patrol Leader again once the girls take over.	4. A parent threatens to take their child out of scouting because their pack has become a family pack with boys and girls. The parent says, "If we have to accept girls, why don't other organizations have to accept boys?"
5. A Committee Member is considering resigning. Their reason for doing so is "because of all the radical and fast changes, like allowing girls."	6. A Scoutmaster from a linked troop approaches you about a concern he's received from a few parents. They are worried that the boys are distracted by the presence of girls, and are considering starting a boy-only troop to provide a distraction-free space. The Scoutmaster is concerned that this does not reflect what is happening or what the youth want.
